1982 Island Trader 40 powered with a Lehman diesel engine

These Island Traders were once the top of their class. While this vessel needs some TLC, her bones are good. The hull was recently painted, she a fiberglass hull, built in Taiwan.

The wood hatches covering the floor expose the engine room and lots of storage space. Her galley has a stainless steel fridge / freezer that looks to have been added by one of her previous owners.

The current owner is a mechanic and maintains the Lehman engine. The direct drive transmission is currently out of the boat and being professionally serviced, see pictures.

There is ornately carved wood railing surrounding the aft deck....
