This is an incredible boat used for racing!

The Flyer was launched as a one-design racer.

The Flyer's uncluttered deck layout works well for a race crew, and the roomy interior (thanks to 11 feet of beam) means the 30-footer can perform double duty as a weekend cruiser. Down below there's bunk space for four, with two bunks tucked under the cockpit seats and two settee berths in the main cabin. A small head sits on centerline, just forward of the primary bulkhead, and the foc'sle is wide open and perfect for sail storage and spinnaker douses.

The engine is under the companionway ladder and a small galley and nav station sit to starboard and port, respectively,...
